Essential Question: What's the difference between editing and revising? (part 2)
Agenda: 1) Editing Reminder 2) Final Touches 3) Creative Writing

Homework: Paper due!

Revision vs. Editing

Editing: Looking for mistakes such as spelling errors, errors in punctuation, mistakes, or other mechanical problems.

Revision: Editing the material of your paper, i.e. the logic, clarity, ideas, etc.

Editing Common Mistakes

- Run-on sentences
- Comma Splices
- Problems in Citation

Editing Common Mistakes

- Comma Splices - 2 independent clauses cannot be joined by just a comma

  - Incorrect sentence: Hamlet becomes so obsessed with revenge, he ignores the needs of everyone else around him.

  - Correct sentence: Hamlet becomes so obsessed with revenge, and he ignores the needs of everyone else around him.

Editing: Common Mistakes

- Golden rule: Join two independent clauses with a comma and then a conjunction
- Remember your conjunctions: FANBOYS
  - For
  - And
  - Nor
  - But
  - Or
  - Yet
  - So

Editing: Common Mistakes

- Introduce quotes with one of the following
    - A comma with a verb of saying (Hamlet says, …)
    - A colon (Hamlet immediately vows to take revenge: ")
    - A period (Hamlet's behavior towards Ophelia is erratic and disturbing. "Quote" (citation).
- Citations - (Act #, Scene #, Line #s)
- Punctuation goes after the quote not inside the quote. Put the mark of punctuation after the parentheses.

Final Touches

- Finish essay!
- Edit!
- Print!
